DELIXIR – CELLULAR NUTRITION

DISTINCTIVE CHARACTERISTICS:

High bioavailability of substances (liquid form), multicomponent and strictly balanced composition (vitamins, minerals, amino acids), natural ingredients, compatible and complementary formulae, easy to use, for people aged 14 and older.

The combined use of DeLixir with DeVita technologies helps to reduce the negative effects of environmental factors on the body, maintain energy, improve physical and psychological condition and resist aging.

VITAMINS

Organic compounds that are absolutely necessary for the normal functioning of the body. Participate in a variety of chemical transformations, exerting a regulatory effect on metabolism and ensuring the normal course of all biochemical and physiological processes in the organism.

MICROELEMENTS

They are the most important catalysts for various biochemical processes, metabolism, and play a significant role in adaptation. Of the 94 natural elements, 81 are found in the human body. 12 are structural because they make up 99% of the elemental composition of the body, the rest are present in very small quantities.

AMINOACIDS

The basic structural units of proteins that determine their biological specificity. Impaired amino acid metabolism is the cause of many diseases. Of the 20 amino acids that make up human proteins, about 10 are substitutable - formed in the body, the others are essential - must come from food.
